As an Environmental Professional or Municipal Manager, you strive to perform your duties at peak efficiency. In order to do this, you look for new information or a better way of doing the same old job. You are also faced with new challenges on a frequent basis. You, your employer, and the public expect compliance at the lowest cost.

Where do you get the information you need?

From publications, training seminars and technical conferences. But it's not just the technical papers you need, its contacts (i.e. Managers, Engineers, Operators, Vendors, and Regulators) that will help you find solutions.

At the Mississippi Water Environment Association's 53rd Annual Meeting and Technical Conference you will get all this and more. The MWEA, is dedicated to advancing understanding of water control technologies and the preservation of the water environment in Mississippi and as a member association of the international Water Environment Federation, with over 36,000 members and 75 affiliated member associations around the world, the WEF supports its stated mission of preserving and enhancing the global water environment. Much of this is through support of member associations. The Association's membership includes engineers, operators, scientists, industrial and municipal facility and regulatory officials.
